

1. LAUNCH OF &YOU

This month, we officially launched &YOU - an incredibly aesthetically-pleasing online, multi-brand interiors-focused concept store founded by Anoud Khaled. Goop-ers, watch out! With a reverence for craftsmanship and provenance, &YOU brings together the very best array of products from both established and emerging designers and presents them together in a collection of stories on "Our List". The brand has already collaborated with the likes of Campbell-Rey, Taiana Giefer, Lara Bohinc, KANA London and Once Milano. You heard it here first!

2. TOAST VIRTUAL CREATIVE RESIDENCY

Having quickly pivoted their much-loved programming to a highly-attended virtual series during C-19 and following the success of their first Creative Residency last year, TOAST remains determined to celebrate and support their like-minded community of creative individuals - this time, virtually. Open to all, three days of online talks, workshops and live demonstrations are inspired by TOAST's AW20 campaign of "Flux & Flow" and it seems almost serendipitous that this season's collection celebrates the changing self. Alongside conversations with Skye Gyngell, Katy Hessel and Slow Sound Meditation, TOAST's new American Maker, Polly Yates, leads a ceramic coiling and pinching workshop alongside other US creatives in partnerships with Textile Arts Center in New York City.

When? Thursday 15th - Sunday 17th October

3. KIMAÏ: AN ETHICAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL MOVEMENT

We're totally behind Kimaï's re-education and societal shift in the perception and use of lab-grown diamonds. Similarly to how the industry championed faux fur, Kimaï are innovating the industry to one that recognizes luxury defined by consciousness and transparency. With all-women big hitters behind them, including Diane von Furstenberg, Rebecca Minkoff and Fidji Simo, and brand fans including Emma Watson, The Duchess of Sussex and Jessica Alba, their mission is well underway. Just as engagement season approaches, this month they launch their first engagement ring collection; the 'Perfectly Imperfect' collection features six made to order pieces designed to spotlight and celebrate the diamond.

Louie

Meet Louie - our favourite, extremely well-fed alligator and patron to the new Covent Garden hotspot.

Louie blends the characteristics of four cities; invoking the soul of New Orleans, the sophistication of Paris, and the sass of a New Yorker - all set on London's stage. Doors are now open, and trust us, you won't want to eat anywhere else this Autumn...

Ideas we're into (but sadly aren't ours..)

THE MANDRAGORE

Paris-based architects, Rescubika, released a proposal for a new building in New York City that would drastically change the skyline forever! Not only would it be the city's tallest, the building nicknamed "Mandradore" has been designed to trap carbon emissions. It was conceived as a response to the "City of Tomorrow" project that aims to make NYC carbon neutral by 2050 and with over 36 wind turbines, 1,600 trees and over 160 floors - we can't wait to see how it turns out!

THE RESY DRIVE-THRU

When we think "drive thru", we think of Grease. But, Resy are changing any preconceived ideas with their 10-course drive-thru tasting menu. In Mid-October, The Hollywood Palladium will be transformed into a whimsical labyrinth featuring ten of LA's most sought-after restaurants and chefs who will each create a new dish for guests. Valets will be on hand to guide your car from restaurant to restaurant with dishes served straight into your hands. Engines at the ready!

SHEEP INC.

Do you own a Sheep Inc? If not, we suggest you buy one immediately. Aside from the geniusly created, carbon negative sweaters complete with tagging device, they also come with a friend. A furry, recently shaved one - in the form of a sheep. We called ours Scott and we can keep track of his movements across the New Zealand farmlands. He looks pretty happy. Sheep Inc's two Founders, Edzard and Michael work with farms in New Zealand that use innovative, sustainable farming methods and conform to the highest animal welfare standards worldwide.
